Logic and Info combine to benefit advisers

CANSTAR CANNEX announces streamlined software integration.

Financial planning software provider, ADVISERLOGIC and Australia's leading financial services research / ratings house CANSTAR CANNEX have combined their Financial Planning software resources to provide the market with a full financial planning software solution. CANSTAR CANNEX's life risk research and premium comparator AdviserInfo will fill the risk research requirements of AdviserLogic.

Both Adviserlogic and Adviserinfo have been developed by experienced financial advisers with the needs of the user at the forefront of the design.

The integration of the software is simple for new and existing users of AdviserLogic and AdviserInfo. They can easily arrange for their software to be integrated providing a complete planning solution.

"We have eliminated re-keying of data by AdviserLogic users and that data combined with the research/ quoting capability of AdviserInfo will flow seamlessly between the two systems to generate more compliant and informative statements of advice," Head of Wealth Management at CANSTAR CANNEX, Stephen Mitchell said.

The integration of these two major players in the insurance comparison game is the end result of extensive testing in the last few months to ensure significant user benefit.

"Integrating with CANSTAR CANNEX, the financial services leading research house, can only improve the end process for financial advisers and that's got to be highly beneficial." AdviserLogic's Managing Director, Gundeep Sidhu said.

This is an important step forward for both AdviserInfo and AdviserLogic and is an exciting indication of further evolution for the industry.

Planners are welcome to contact CANSTAR CANNEX or AdviserLogic for details about the new integrated system.
